Synopsis

My Memory Maker and Making Memories creative journal set is a journaling set for children and their parents. The parent companion journal contains resource guide with helpful suggestions, on-line resources, What Works section, Suggested Readings and Glossary of Terms. The children's book contains writing prompts with lots of space for creative artwork. Oftentimes, children are unable to articulate their feelings. This is a journaling set that was created to open the communication gap between children and their caregiving parents about the grief associated with elderly loved ones diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease. Sold together as a set. The set comes with a box of crayons.

Customer Reviews

Good Grief For Kids is a journal specifically and successfully designed to assist children in coping with their grief during times of loss. Within its pages children are encouraged to express themselves through drawing as well as writing. An adult resource section is replete with positive suggestions for parents, teachers, and caregivers seeking to help a child who is in the process of grieving. As children work through their grief, they will learn more about themselves and about life. Growing from this experience, they will be enabled to move from painful feelings to accepting, loving memories. Good Grief For Kids is a unique and highly effective tool for addressing and overcoming a child's pain of loss.

This art therapy journal was very useful to our family when we recently lost a close family friend. My children were able to write and draw about their feelings of loss. It was very comforting to be able to have something to give them to help them with their grief.
