My 6-year old son reads very well, definitely past the 1st level this book is designed for. He read this book at his K and asked me to get him his own copy, so I did even though I was surprised that he wanted to own this book considering he has already read it. The day he received the book he read it three times: once to me, once to his friend, and once to his mom. I think the book is well written and designed. The illustrations are well done, and the story is cute. The biggest benefit in my view is that it teaches my child how to read POEMS. He is trying to get the rhythm as he is reading, and that is what I like the most.

Grumpy Cheese and easy going Mac are so much fun, this book is sure to be a favorite with young readers. The perfect rhymes and satisfying rhythm we've all come to associate with Sarah Weeks' early readers are inviting and fun and Jane Manning's pictures are simply wonderful. So happy to know that there is another Mac and Cheese adventure on the way!

While we all think of Mac and Cheese as things that go together, this story is about two friends who are total opposites. It is a good book for the beginner for easy reading and recognizing rhyming words.

My 5yo's favorite food is mac & cheese, so I thought this title would draw him in, and it did! He can read most of the words himself and loves the characters' personalities. Will be looking for more Mac and Cheese books!

I think this is a good book for little ones just on the verge of reading. It captured the interest of my little 3 year old granddaughter, as she has 2 cats in her family, and one of her favorite foods is mac & cheese! Nice book.

This book is entertaining for both the kids and the adults who read it to the kids. My son absolutely loves mac & cheese the food, that's why we borrowed this book from the library. Now I've come here to buy it because we just love it so much. :)

What a fun title for a story, and those are the names of the two very different cats in this book. My 3 year old grandson enjoys reading it over and over, right to the happy ending where the felines realize that liking different things doesn't mean you can't like each other!

Mac and Cheese are two alley cats, who can't agree on anything. Mac wants to go to the beach, but Cheese doesn't like the beach. After a little -- make that a LOT of persuasion, Cheese agrees to go -- with a few stipulations....The second adventure of two funny street cats, told in a swinging rhyme that is sure to entertain an early reader or younger. Ages 3-7.
