Customer Reviews

We included this "super" (it is!) coloring book in a big box of "Planes" related items as one of our older grandson's Christmas gifts, and it really is a nice book. Counted 52 stickers that your youngster can adhere (be warned that the emphasis is on ADHERE... once they're placed, they can't be removed and re-stuck), and of the 98 pages, 71 (including the title page) are for coloring, with 27 activity pages interspersed. The coloring pages do a nice job of covering the plot of the movie, and mention all of the significant characters. There are a nice variety of different activity pages (mazes, word finds, finding differences, matching, word scrambles, etc.) that make this a perfect take-along on a long car ride, or during any adult oriented event where children are easily bored, and you'd prefer they "be seen but not heard". Lots of stuff to keep them happy and occupied, and with the bonus of some logic exercises! And another neat thing I noticed... the pages are perforated so your youngster can pluck out a special page for Grandma! (All of us grandmas have refrigerators in need of decorating with our grandkids' artwork!) 's $3.59 price was under the imprinted $3.99 price on the back cover, so we were happy with that as well.

I thought my kids would get a kick out of this Planes coloring book. They certainly are eager for the upcoming movie. I received it 2 weeks ago and it still hasn't been colored in. Why? My oldest (6) claims the pictures are too small and lines too fine. Most her coloring books have large pictures with thick black lines to stay in. This book has very fine lined pictures. As the adult, I am baffled by her logic. I think the pictures of movie aircraft are great looking and really have some level of artistic quality to them. Basically, the finer lines allow for more airplane detail. To the 6 year old, it's too difficult. So she takes a pass. Weird. I give it 4 stars for the "I like it" standard. I do like it. But I do not "love it" because of my kids, mostly my 6 year old, not using it.

Our grandsons loves this coloring/activity book. I tear out the pages and set them up at their kidlet table. Nice to have boy friendly creative options like Disney Cars & Planes (when their parents were little, it was Toy Story's Buzz & Woody that our boy loved).. No big social agenda, just great stories where good guys push through, get stronger, and win with integrity. Nice life lesson messages in pint size stories. Well done.

My son loves this. Not only is this a coloring book, but also a story book as well. He enjoys telling the story that is on the pages.

If your little one has seen the movie, they will probably love this coloring book. My son is five, and is delayed on his fine motor skills so that coloring is not as easy for him, but he loves coloring in this book. Because it is from the Planes movie, he gets excited coloring in picture after picture, and talking about the movie. So it is a great motivator for those kids who love the movie, but may or may not be in to coloring. He doesn't care that he can't always stay in the lines. And he enjoys coloring the characters any color he wants. :)Just glad I found more of these coloring books on , as they have sold out in our local stores.

My son likes to color the pictures and if he's happy that's what matters. He likes most thingsDisney related.

We haven't seen the movie yet but the kids love coloring the pictures in this book. Great fun for the little ones.

It's a coloring book. It's got planes and clouds. My twin sons seem to enjoy coloring in it - they're 2.
