Customer Reviews

My favorite calendars are the Jane Shasky-illustrated ones by Lang. They have excellent linen-like paper that is easy to write on, and the squares for each date are reasonably large. I bought such a Shasky-Lang calendar for 2015, but alas, it duplicated 6 months and was missing the other 6 months. Because too much time had gone by when I realized this, I couldn't return the calendar. So I had to decide what kind of new 2015 calendar I wanted to get. I could have bought another Shasky-Lang calendar and hope for the best. Or not. I opted for the not: A, because they are somewhat pricey, and B, I didn't want to have the same problem again. I decided to get this calendar instead. The quality of paper is not as goodâit's glossy and hard to write on. The date squares are fairly small. But the pictures are gorgeous, and if I'm going to look at certain things every day, I want them to be beautiful and inspiring, which these pictures are. So yes, I am very pleased with my purchase.

This may be my 3rd year getting her calendar? Maybe second...anyway, I will continue to get them in the future. So beautiful, every image. And I somehow find the title of each image to set the tone for the month, like a little forecast of some sort. It's interesting. I also got the Women of Myth and Magic by Kinuko Y. Craft 2015 Wall Calendar. I am now struggling with which one to keep at home and which to take to work. Based on how long I feel I need to stare at each new month's image. :) Don't wanna be at my desk at work and caught staring at my calendar all the time. LOL

I bought this calendar more for the illustrations than the dates. They are gorgeous! It's hanging in my kitchen in a place where I can see it from my favorite chair in the living room. Although each month's illustration is worthy of framing, it's quite pleasant to have art on display that changes monthly. I definitely will buy the 2016 calendar!

Very beautiful, Linda Ravenscroft is one of my favorite fantasy artists. I didn't realize however, that the calendar is basically a collection of prints from past calendars and not her true 2015 calendar.

I love the Woodland Faeries calendars. They have some of the most beautiful pictures, and if your into faeries as I am you'll really enjoy this calendar. I get one every year.

I have ordered these calendars every year for past 4 years, and never a disappointment. I will continue to order as long as made each new year.

This is such a beautiful calander..love the detail of the prints and colors...it will be a pleasure to go threw the year with this elegance.

I buy the Llewellyn calendars annually and this years' is just as great as they always are - and I look forward to using it every day.
