Look and Find: Disney's Cars prompts children to: Cruise the busy streets of Radiator Springs to find the cars that live there. Search for motor-watering morsels at Flo's V8 CafÃ©. Find the mementos hidden in Doc Hudson's garage. Scour Mater's junkyard for shiny new auto parts. Find the fancy license plates in Lizzie's curio shop. Track down tires in Luigi's tire shop. Locate the portraits of town founder Stanley in the Radiator Springs courthouse. Point out the postcards of Radiator Springs. A section at the back of the book challenges children to find dozens of additional items, providing hours of additional look-and-find fun. It is a little cartoon styled for my taste but this doesn't seem to slow down my child at all. He recognizes everybody and loves this book. It is a little large for plane travel but thin enough that we do just put it in our backpack for something to do. I'd prefer it be smaller but at least it's not heavy

I bought this book as a birthday present for my Cars obsessed 4 year old son. We've enjoyed going through the book and playing "I-spy" while looking for all of his friends from Cars. Some of the graphics are a little different than those in the movies (more like classic cartoons if that makes any sense) but everyone is still instantly recognizable. My son really loves Cars so he's happy to sit quietly and look at the pictures of Radiator Springs and Team Lightning McQueen for good long time! If you have a Cars fan in your house, it's a nice little addition to their collection for sure!

My 5 year old just loves these Look & Find it books and these are perfect for him. He loves "reading" in bed at night with these books and the new Cars one is his new favorite!

My 2 year old got this book for Christmas and he loves it! He doesn't want me to read him the words, he just likes to find all of the things he's supposed to find. My 4 and 5 year olds also like reading this book with him!

My son is 2.5 years old and he can do one or two pages...the rest are a little advanced. I'm kind of okay with that, because this book will still be interesting to him as he gets a bit older. He loved that it was Cars themed, and he likes looking at the pages whether or not he can find the items on the page.

Some of the other look and find books have very small images on each page so that it can be hard for a toddler. This one has bigger pictures on each page so it was easier for my three year old to find the things. The downfall of that is that she got bored with this one faster.

With my son being really big into Cars and needing extra help in the book area, I thought this would be perfect. There isn't very many pages to keep him occupied and then he is done before we ever really began. I just wish the book offered more pages that would hold his attention longer.

I bought this for my "advanced" 3 year old grandson. I was a little disappointed that the items were so easy to find. He's used to more involved pictures, but he loves this. He's a huge Cars fan, so he enjoys doing it over and over, even tho he knows where everything is. I highly recommend this!
